

Patient B: Role Sheet

Use the information in this profile when you consult with a “doctor” who will be taking your medical history in a role play. If you were not given information to answer a particular question that the doctor asks you, you may use your imagination.

Your name: Avery Easton (45-year-old ALT from London)
Works at a Japanese high school

* If you are male, you will play the role of a male. If you are female, you will do the role play as a female.

* Presenting Problem: Skin rash throughout entire body

* Had sensitive skin since early childhood but it became much worse after coming to Japan / always itchy

* Itchiness prevents patient from socializing with others which has led to isolation

* Not in too much pain but very uncomfortable due to the

* in Britain had various allergy tests taken and allergies to dust, mites, ragweed, and cedar were found

* had bad asthma as a child and needed to use an inhaler

* has been prescribed steroid creams for skin condition in the past and other non-steroid oral medication

* drinks every day / about 3 beers or a bottle of wine

(S)he is getting worried about the level of alcohol consumption

* has taken cocaine and marijuana for recreational use in the past; smokes cigarettes often—about a pack a day

* unhappy at the school where (s)he works; feels bullied by other teachers and even by some of the students and their parents

* lives with Japanese partner in a rather abusive relationship

* used to like running and going to the gym but doesn't get much exercise now

*mother and siblings also have allergies and skin conditions

* father died at an early age; he had arthritis and high blood pressure